Abstract: This paper discusses the electromagnetic energy of the living and non-living materials. In specific, electromagnetic energy radiated by living things also known as an aura. A human being possesses an exterior energy field (Aura), which was created by distilling the essence of the timeless writings and philosophies. Here, we'll explore a different sort of strategy that will help us comprehend this concept more clearly. Here, we can also discover some fresh concepts that will help us discover a more effective way to put this energy to good use. We address some of the physical and psychological issues we may experience as a result of electromagnetic radiation, both positively and negatively. A fresh concept or method for storing the present memory photons is also needed.

Keywords: HUMAN AURA, ELECTROMAGNETIC FIELD, REINCARNATION, NEUTRALIZATION

1.0. Introduction:

A human being is believed to be surrounded by an energy field known as an aura all around their body, according to the ancient Indian yoga sutras. Aura is supposed to be present in all objects, whether they be alive or non-living, and is not just permitted in human people.[1]

And this energy or aura is a subtle anatomy of human chakra system which represents the inner most desires, feelings and emotions of an individual.

In scientific terminology an aura is a form of electromagnetic field of energy that issurrounded all over the body. The extension of the human aura is about 4-5 feet in case of a healthy person and it appears depleted in case of an unhealthy person.

By the development of Hi-tech electronic gadgets and instruments it has become possible for us to detect the fine subtle vibrations in the surroundings.

Semyon Kirlian[9] was first to capture subtle energy field through electronic instrumentwho accidently discovered that if an object on a photographic plate is connected to a source of high voltage, small corona discharges create an image on the photographic plate. And soon after his research the development of Kirlian camera was done, by which scientists were able to photograph the electromagnetic fields.

Through this method it is founded that non-living thing do not change the parametersof their aura, were as the aura field can change dramatically and quickly in case of living things. This provides a new tool for scientists to study about the physics of life.

1.1. Levels of Aura in the Human energy system:

A human aura consists of different layers which constitutes to what we know as oursubtle bodies. These are broadly classified into 5 types, they are[7]:

1.1.1. Physical body:

For an individual all the vital organs, fluids etc. which are termed as the building blocks of our physical existence comes under physical body which is also termed asfirst layer and appears as a thin milky vibrational energy emanating from our body.

1.1.2. EMOTIONAL BODY:

This is termed as the second layer of aura it represents the emotional responses namely love, hatred, jealousy, forgiveness, sad etc. If in case we encounter anythingin our physical reality then the conscious mind quickly analyses the situation on theemotional layer and sends responses corresponding to the situation which is accessed from our emotional layer. But as time passes the emotions or memories get shifted from conscious mind to sub conscious mind and get stored there.

1.1.3. MENTAL BODY:

The third layer which is also called as mental body in which all the past experiences,memories and belief patterns are stored. Conscious mind usually operates at this level by analyzing the situations based on the emotional bases and send corresponding responses to the conscious mind.

1.1.4. SPIRITUAL BODY:

This layer in aura is the giant store house of all the information related to the past present and future. In other words, this layer consists of all the karma, sanchita and vanshik. By this layer we can get the access to study the individual life form and wecan also measure his or her amount of positive or negative energy. This layer is the fourth layer in which we can know the nature of the person.

1.1.5. ASTRAL BODY:

This fifth layer the astral body which is nothing but the exact blueprint of the physical body like heart, lungs etc. our astral body also consists of such kind of terms but in a subtle energy form as the aura is surrounded all over the body.

2.0. Review of literature:

According to the paper “human aura: a Vedic approach in it” [1] everything on thisearth has its own special energy field. Which is often refer to as bio field. This energyis different for different individuals and can be viewed in different colors, shapes, layers etc. later on this bio filed is termed as aura. And according to Moe everythingon this universe is a kind of energy in the form of positive, negative and neutral.

Karma: a study of the law of cause and effect [2]. An introduction by Jerome A. Anderson; refers to the spiritual principle of cause and effect which can be comparedto the newtons third law for our understanding “every action has an equal and opposite reaction” as such, our present actions have their own reactions which we might face in future life.

And according to law of conservation of energy “energy norther be created nor be destroyed it can only be transferred from one place to another” [3].

And there many experiments are done like monitoring the human health by measuring the biofield (aura) in order to get a clear image on the aura importance inour daily life. Our aura also has its own impact on one’s consciousness.

3.0. different theory by which we can read what is meant by a Human aura:

Through his book Knowledge of the Self, Param Pujya Dadashri revealed what happens after death.

He intended to convey to us through the book that everything with life must eventually go from the physical realm after all karma accounts have been resolved.

Let's now examine what a researcher means when they refer to an aura. The energy form that surrounds the body all around is known as an aura. Which is also can be called as electromagnetic radiation.

It had already proven that every human being has an external energy field called as aura which had been first pictured by the help Kirlian Photography.

The neutralization layer, which holds the aura to the body and is removed when there is a lack of reactive force between positive and negative energies, then aura gets separated from our body. The energy is not entirely severed from our bodies Because certain elements of our bodies continue to function after death so it takes time of day or two for the aura to get completely get detached from the body.

Therefore, aura is not completely detached after our death because there exists a little amount of positive energy which makes aura to stick. While in this process the memory protons will also get stick to the aura and all the gases produced by our body also gets stick to the aura which contains positive form of energy.

But everyone is left wondering what type of energy form exists and how it might be tied to our bodies. All of us are aware that we eat to obtain energy, and we have been taught this since we were little children, but no one has ever questioned what happens to the energy we obtain from the food we consume. This can be readily explained by the scientific experiments we conducted in elementary school. We also discovered that energy can only be transmitted; it cannot be generated or destroyed.

So, the energy we leave after utilization from our body forms an energy shield around our body nothing but aura. Let us consider the energy which we take from food is positive form of energy and that which leaves is negative form of energy sothere exist a neutralization layer which helps the aura to stick our body. we humansalso consist of some illuminating cells and these cells also get stick to the aura and this is the reason why some times we can see a body like foggy substance.

Effects of this energy so formed-

These energy forms can affect us both positive and negative ways. When a person is weak or sick then our aura will also get effected and it becomes thin and sometimes it also leads to energy hole which makes a pass way for the external energies to get over us and this external energy are some times of negative form which suck our energy for its neutralization propose. during this process we can see the person who is been possessed by the external negative energy (aura) suffering from a pain which can't be explained by one self and in some cases a person even can die due to lack of energy.

And some says the possessed person says something related to the person who diedor in other words everything about the external aura that possess the person. This isdue to the presence of memory proton in that external aura which are been transferred from the energy holes to our brain. And while in this process of aura of someone to get neutralized by another person positive energy there exist a huge battle between our body and the external aura and also, we can see some changes inthe body of the person who was been possessed like voice, eyes etc.

And in some cases, there exist a temperature drop which is been felt by us is also due to the aura, because aura needs some kind of energy for its existence and for neutralization of its own.

2406119_211841_1016_1019As seen, we can interpolate many things by taking the bases of my theory and this negative form of energy can be also used for the treatment of some psychological disorders. Another proposal based on this theory is we can use this aura to extract the memory photons that are present in the aura and we can try recreate the personspresence even after his/her death. This taught had been derived from many past casesin which there are transfer of one's aura to an infant and one of the best examples ofsuch kind is the case happened in India and name of the person is santi devi. And according to some ancient saying's the new born infant has the ability to see their past life due to which they feel a little bit deviated. And as they grow the memory up till then get trapped in the subconscious mind and when the neutralization layer breaks the memory photons get trapped in aura in the process of neutralization of the aura, these memory photons can be then extracted using some kind of negative energy and then transferring them to AI machine in the form of frequencies.

But we can retrieve only few auras because according to some of the Indian ancient theory's when a person or his soul had completely fulfilled his/her deeds then the aura or the soul of the person get completely gets neutralized or in other religious terms atma gets bonded with paramatma and its presence on the earth can't be retrieved. Which is in turn means the negative radiation get completely neutralized and attains neutral form.[17 – 27]

4.0. Conclusion:

The term aura was not a new terminology but it has its own application since olden centuries. The paper deals with the history of the experiments, theories etc, done in order determine the properties, the existence and the formation of aura and its effects.

So, the paper may give you a new kind of understanding of the term aura in an easier way, this paper also suggests different methods and new research practices that can be performed in order to understand the effects, uses and meaning of the term aura.

The paper also raises different forms of ideas by achieving which we can give a unpickable results to the mankind. Further research has to be done for more applications andfor development of new techniques to treat people. And this paper also contains a new kind of idea through which we can bring back the memories of a dead person that which can be transported to other means. That is by storing them and using them at the time of use. But as the aura can attain its neutral form so it is mentioned that only few auras that which are seeking for neutralization can be used for our studies.
